On Chris mas morning, 1885, we had just three Christmas cards left. We had given the people some-thing never before seen in Canton—a stock of cards that for variety, richness and price was equal to that found in the largest cities. They appreciated the fact, and as a result we were completely cleaned out.

This year we have surpassed last. We have cards from a few cents up to several dollars in price. They comprise the latest designs of the most famous publishers, and more beautiful work has never been issued. If you want some cards you had better not waste any time for they are going rapidly.
